

ABSTRACT

THE COVID 19 PANDEMIC:

AN ANALYSIS OF POLICY TRENDS AND FUTURE IMPLICATIONS

* PRANIKA CORREA & JEHAN JHAVERI

What started as an unknown disease in China, soon came to be known as Covid-19, one of the world's largest humanitarian crisis. The impact of this pandemic has been catastrophic in its scope, and the economy has taken a massive toll. Owing to the fact that Covid-19 is currently an ongoing pandemic, long term policy changes and its long-term effects are still under speculation. This paper analyses the impact of the pandemic on various parameters, and attempts to study the trends from the lens of various issues such as economics, human rights, legal frameworks, etc. By observing how various societies are reacting to this global pandemic with respect to their businesses, labourers, economy, etc., the authors have attempted to analyse the present circumstances, as well as future implications on national policies.

